STEPH

Ski or snowboard? Mainly boarding.

Ask me about...Mt Hutt or Mt Ruapehu – I grew up boarding both mountains.

GABBI

Ski or snowboard? Snowboard.
Best mountain moment: Losing concentration while on a T-bar in Thredbo and riding straight into the T-bar tower!!! Ouch! Not my finest hour.
Ask me about...Thredbo - It's my "local" hill so I know all the ins and outs and where the best après spots are.

KIRSTY

MEGAN

Ski or snowboard? Snowboard and a hot chocolate expert.

New Zealand

Whether you're permanently in powder or you've never felt snow before, New Zealand offers ski adventures that will keep you begging for "just one more run".

From north to south, there has never been a better time to book your New Zealand ski holiday with low-cost flights across the Tasman and value for money ski packages on offer throughout the countries premiere ski resorts.

When to visit?

New Zealand can experience heavy snowfalls right from the beginning of winter (June) through to spring (mid October). June, July and August traditionally are the months with highest snowfalls.

Late June and most of July is the busiest time of the season with school holidays in place, while August and September generally have the most reliable snow conditions. But If you are after great snow conditions as well as warmer sun soaked days you can't beat September and early October for great spring skiing and no queues!

Queenstown

Surrounded by stunning mountain scenery and nestled alongside Lake Wakatipu, Queenstown tops the list of New Zealand ski destinations to visit.

There are four skiable mountains within an easy 90 minute drive from Queenstown - Coronet Peak, The Remarkables, Cardrona and Treble Cone. Coronet Peak is loved by locals because of the easily accessible terrain and consistent snow conditions throughout the season. Beginner and intermediate areas are positioned away from the main trails making learning stress-free and keeping the steeper runs free for those with a need for speed.

The Remarkables is just that – remarkable! This mountain receives an abundance of natural snow and is a favourite with families – what’s not to love about three sunny, snow-filled bowls and magnificent views?

Off snow Queenstown has plenty of après ski action with restaurants, bars and nightlife. Queenstown is also well known for adventure activities, making it a paradise for all holidaymakers.

Sorry for this crap ad.

There's a few reasons why we've won NZ's Best Ski Resort three years running, and our advertising isn't one of them.

Ask the thousands of people that voted for us and they'll tell you it's actually the kilometres of leg-burning runs, the umpteen powder days, and the down-to-earth Kiwi hospitality.

Clearly we should stick with what we do best.
